

Important information regarding your results

You have not yet passed all of your modules.

You may progress to the next stage but must complete exceptional referral assessment.

Please take a careful look at your transcript. There is a key to the codes used on the reverse.

A three-letter code beginning with E next to one or more elements is a referral code which means you must complete further assessment in that element for the corresponding module. An element is coursework, examination, practice, in-class test or pass/fail assessment. The other two letters indicate whether the exceptional referral is as a S same or N next attempt and how the element will be reassessed.

Here are some examples:

ENC against coursework means that you have been referred in that coursework and must complete reassessment by coursework and this would be regarded as your next attempt.

ESC against coursework means that you have been referred in that coursework and must complete reassessment by coursework and this would be regarded as the same attempt.

This is what you need to do:

Assessment	Work required	Re-Submission date
Coursework All modules	New essay titles will be provided by mid-October	Thursday 22 November 2018
Examination All modules	Alternative assessment essay titles will be provided in place of examinations by mid-October	Thursday 22 November 2018

1. You need only undertake the modules in which you have been referred and resubmit the component or element of the module(s) that has not been achieved. Please check your transcript to see which modules and assessments, including examinations you need to do.
