

PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS (Dental / Urgent & Emergency Care) HEALTH CHECKS – OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND BLOOD TESTS

Health Screening Form

As part of the application process, it is compulsory that you complete a Health Screening form online. Please read the Guidance Note for Prospective Student Applicants 2021, as it has important details regarding the process.

You must attach to the Health Screening Form, as much immunisation evidence as you can obtain, particularly in relation to the following:

- Hepatitis B
- Chicken pox
- BCG/TB screening
- Measles, mumps and rubella

Please contact your GP to request a copy of any vaccinations/immunisations records. If you have ever worked in a healthcare setting, please request this evidence from the relevant occupational health department/provider. Scan any documents into PDF format in readiness to attach to your health screening form on the portal. Remember to ensure your name and date of birth is clearly visible.

The form is then assessed by the Faculty of Health's occupational health provider (OHWB) at University Hospitals Plymouth NHS Trust. Forms are processed in order of receipt. Due to the volume of forms processed by OHWB, it is not possible to acknowledge receipt. However, you will receive notification of the outcome after the form has been processed.

To prepare for clinical placements, students will be required to attend an OHWB immunisation appointment after enrolment on the course. Your immunisation history will be reviewed at this appointment and supplying this information in advance along with your health screening form, will help to ensure you are not kept longer than necessary.

Blood Tests for Blood Borne Viruses (BBVs)

Student training can involve contact with infectious patients, and an infection you might have could also be passed to a patient. Therefore, before you can commence your studies, you must demonstrate that you are not infectious with communicable diseases. Please ensure you read and understand all attached documents regarding BBV screening.
