4. Distinctive features of the programme and the student experience

- Two options of study – 3 year standard full-time or 2 year fast-track.
- The fast-track route provides an opportunity to complete your degree in two years. You will graduate after two years of intensive study, entering the graduate employment market a year earlier than peers.
- We recognise that our students are unique, coming from all over the world, with different backgrounds and interest. We believe that your degree should be as unique as you are, and that you should have the flexibility to tailor your degree to your interests. Our specialist modules in human resource management, international business, marketing and project management, give you the option to graduate with a specialised Business Management degree of your choice.

- We recognise that students learn in different ways. As such you will be challenged through both practical and theoretically derived assessments. You will apply knowledge to real business contexts and undertake tasks reminiscent of real world practice.
- We believe that students should be able to explore and understand both the local and global matters that interest them. Our students are encouraged to research topics that they are passionate about, while working with students who have similar interests on our challenge module and through an individual research project in their final year.
- We believe that building our students' personal and professional resilience is key to them pursuing a successful and rewarding career. Our careers provision offers dedicated support to help students prepare for work placements (including an optional placement year) and graduate roles ensuring that they are competitive in the future graduate market.

The Human Resources Management pathway is professionally accredited by the CIPD and thus we place significant emphasis on the employability and skills development in the area of HRM to help students develop as a HRM professional.

CIPD membership:

- Professional accreditation has been attained from the CIPD for the HRM pathway so that upon successful completion of the programme, students will have the necessary knowledge criteria to upgrade to Associate, Chartered or Fellow membership (depending upon their level of work experience).
- Please note that whilst University of Plymouth allow for compensation, the CIPD do not permit it. Therefore if students are compensated they will not be able to obtain CIPD Accreditation.

Student membership of the CIPD:

- A requirement of the programme is that students must become student members of the CIPD. Not only does this help with obtaining jobs in HR but it also provides a rich resource of research and professional guidance which is only available to members of the Institute. The CIPD website is an interactive site of global HR news and information, focusing on the big issues of the day, and drawing on the views of top HR academics, practitioners and thinkers. The on line People Management feed accelerates the development of the website news and comment, strengthening its coverage of the HR dimension of the moving business agenda as it happens daily and hourly. At the same time, the People Management magazine is a monthly, features-led magazine providing more challenging and thought-provoking articles, and more in-depth sharing of best and next practice.
- To obtain CIPD membership students will need to join the CIPD during their studies (before the end of their studies at the latest) to produce a Student Registration Number. This number will need to be given to the Faculty Office to enable them to communicate their results to the CIPD so that upon completion of studies membership can be upgraded from student membership to Associate, Chartered or Fellow membership (depending upon their level of work experience).

CIPD Branch Support:

- As members of the CIPD, students automatically become members of the local branch which in this case is the Devon and Cornwall branch. This branch is also sub divided into five area groups in recognition of the large geographical spread of Devon and Cornwall. Through this branch, students have access to a variety of support mechanisms which will sustain them through their programme of study and beyond into their HR professional career. They can utilise a wide network of professionals with whom mentoring can be arranged, an active branch programme of events focussing on a broad range of topics and notification of local HR job opportunities which may not be published elsewhere. Branch members can also offer opportunities for research or project work within their own organisations.
