Your statutory right to cancel
You enter into a contract with the University when you accept the offer of a place at the University (as set out in the University’s offer letter to you). You have a statutory right to cancel this contract (and withdraw your enrolment from the University) up to the end of a period of 14 days starting the day after you accept the University’s offer. This applies to any student at any level of study at the University.

To cancel your contract with the University you must complete and send this form or the statutory cancellation form contained in Appendix 1, or otherwise communicate your cancellation request in clear terms to your Faculty as detailed below within the 14 day cancellation period. If you exercise your right to cancel as described above, the University will refund any tuition fee paid for the relevant programme of studies within 14 days of receipt of your cancellation request. However, please note that you may be charged for any costs incurred by the University up to the point of cancellation. Such costs may include, for example travel, laboratory consumables, printing or books ordered.

If you wish to withdraw from your programme of study after the 14 day cancellation period has expired, please submit this form as detailed below and we will apply the relevant tuition fee in accordance with the Tuition Fee Charging and Refund Policy published in the Student Handbook:  www.plymouth.ac.uk/studenthandbook (select “withdrawing and interrupting students – fees payable”)

International students

International students must attend an appointment with the International Student Advisory Service (ISAS) located in the International Student Gateway, Ground Floor, Roland Levinsky Building before withdrawing or interrupting study. The University is required to inform UK Visas and Immigration of any change in your enrolment.

Important notes

If you are withdrawing or interrupting study, you must do more than simply stop attending. If you wish to withdraw or interrupt from your programme please make sure you first discuss this with your Personal Tutor or Programme Lead to ensure that this is the best course of action for you - sometimes just talking an issue/problem through can help to clarify what you need/want to do. If you still wish to withdraw or interrupt you must advise your Faculty Office by submitting this form. If this form is not submitted you will deemed to still be a student and therefore liable for tuition fees. It is not sufficient to verbally inform your Personal Tutor or Programme Lead.

Please ensure you have read and are aware of the financial implications of withdrawing or interrupting study by reading the Tuition Fee Charging and Refund Policy:  www.plymouth.ac.uk/studenthandbook and select “withdrawing and interrupting students – fees payable”.

Withdrawing from study means that you have decided to stop studying with Plymouth University and you have no intention of returning to continue your programme of study in the future. Please be aware that student facilities will no longer be available to you apart from those offered to alumni:  www.plymouth.ac.uk/alumni
Interrupting from study means that you have decided to temporarily suspend your studies, however you intend to resume studies in the near future. Please be aware that there is a maximum period of time in which you have to complete your award. Your Faculty Office can provide advice on your particular programme of study. You can continue to access university facilities such as the library and your computing account during your period of interruption, although the university retains the right to withdraw this if necessary.
